Vote for High Standards, Not High Stakes

Based on my 26 years of teaching experience, I am confident in saying that no one test should determine whether a student receives a high school diploma...this is just bad, ineffective policy and practice.

- Sarah Woodard, Teacher, Easthampton
[Daily Hampshire Gazette, 8/26/24]

"I've seen how teaching to the test disengages my son. His school days are significantly better before MCAS season begins...his educators can teach him material that meets the state standards in a way that's fun and exciting.

- Joy Ahmed, Parent, Ashland

Voting Yes On Two Will:

- ✓ Take away the high-stakes MCAS graduation requirement
- ✓ Lower student stress and anxiety surrounding the MCAS
- ✓ Empower teachers to teach in the way that's best for students instead of teaching to the test
- ✓ Allow the MCAS to be used as an evaluative tool for teachers and schools
- ✓ Maintain the high educational standards of our schools
