Vote Yes on Two

Create a learning environment where every student can thrive.

By removing the high-stakes MCAS graduation requirement, we're putting our students first. We have the opportunity to support schools that value growth, individuality, and real-world skills over one-size-fits-all standardized test scores. When we recognize our students as more than a score, they're free to learn, grow, and thrive in the ways that are best for their individual needs.

Vote Yes on Two and allow students to:

- ☒ Develop a lifelong love of learning that lasts beyond the next test
- ☒ Focus on growing real-life skills such as critical thinking and creativity
- ☒ Learn with less stress, helping them build confidence in themselves
